PRACTICE TEXT

On Friday our class went to the Humane Society to learn how they help stray pets find new homes, so we were excited and a little nervous as we drove into the parking lot. Barks and howls greeted us at the door to the lobby, and Miss Baxter, the director, led us on a tour of the building where she showed us the area for pets that are sick, and then she led us into the kennels where the healthy pets are kept until they are adopted. We were surprised how many dogs and cats were there, so we wondered how there would ever be enough homes for so many animals. We were sad to learn that many animals have to be put to sleep because they never do find a new home. Over the weekend our family decided to go to the Humane Society ourselves to rescue one of the lonely dogs our class had seen the day before, and we came home with two beagles, not just one!
